False Alarms

From the general tone of the Democratic press in Oregon, and of speeches made by leaders of the party, one would be led to suppose that popular rights and liberty were entirely subverted and that we were in danger of being subjected to the control of a military despotism That such pretences are utterly absurd and unfounded, no rational man doubts The Union party, which composes the majority of the people, is not so blind as to sustain an administration that aims at the destruction of the liberties of the nation What, indeed, can the Administration gain by any such designs? It is only in office for a limited period, and in accordance with the popular will It will not remain in power unless its action meets with popular approbation why should it do anything tending to create a despotism which would forever crush it and its friends? The idea is supremely ridiculous, and is only a device of the common enemy, manufactured in the hope that by its use, timid men, sharply jealous of their rights, may be frightened into the support of men and measures that are hostile to the true and best interest of the Government Its sole foundation is the hope of political gain The very men who talk and write as though they supposed there was something to be feared, do not believe their own words They know that the earnest and only object of the leading officers of the Government is to save it from ruin, and to employ military force and agencies simply for the suppression of the rebellion, and to check disorderly conduct at the North, when this is carried on in behalf of treason They know, moreover, that the Administration would be false to its duty and false to the country, if it failed to use every possible means to accomplish this purpose, and they are guilty of most atrocious falsehoods, as well as of most infamous disloyalty, when they thus seek to arouse the prejudices of the people against the Government The sincere patriot will approve and justify all acts which tend to preserve popular liberty, but he will never strive to weaken faith in the Government, by misrepresentation or party opposition

Loss of an Old U S Ship —A marine report at Philadelphia says;

> On March 21, fell in with the British, bark Falmouth, from New York for Aspinwall, in a sinking condition Lay by her until the gale abated and took off Capt. Tucker, her officers and crew 15 in all Left one man dead at the pumps Shortly afterwards saw her go down, head foremost.

The Falmouth was formerly the U S ship Falmouth, for many years storeship at Aspinwall, which was recently sold at auction

There are some persons in Oregon, who will feel the loss of the old Falmouth as that of a personal friend She was the vessel upon which, on the 13th of August 1850, Governor Gaines and family, Judge Strong and family, Mr. Jas C Strong, now Lieut Col in the U S A, Mr Aaron Kinney, now of the Dennison House, Gen Hamilton and family, arrived in the Columbia river, Capt. Pettigru, commander, Lts White, and Harrison Mid shipmen, Wager Beattie Armstrong, Spedden, &c &, and Capt Devlin, of the Marines, were officers This vessel was detailed by Commodore McCauley, to transport the above party, from San Francisco to Oregon, they having arrived there in the U S store ship Supply

A Fearful Prospect —Those who now oppose the Government, under the impression that it will not sustain itself in the contest with treason, do not seem to be aware of the harvest of shame, which by and by they will be compelled to gather and to hold as long as they shall live In the glorious future of freedom and strength —when the Union is restored, and the national flag waves in triumph over the whole land what will, what must be the feeling of the base the disappointed, the defeated political traitor who after abusing and denouncing the Government is compelled to acknowledge and to recognize it as the protector of his rights and the master of his actions Men who wish to be respected ought to remember that by trampling upon all constituted authority, they make themselves outlaws, and invite universal reproach, and they may be sure that in a few months, it will be more disgraceful to have the reputation of a secession Democrat, than it was to be known as a traitor to the people in the Revolutionary war.

Fight with Snake Indians —Wm Logan, Indian agent at the Warm Spring Reserve has received the following letter from J G Campbell schoolmaster at the Reserve giving the details of another fight with the Snakes Donald McKay's Indians are a party of forty or fifty made up at the Reserve to accompany Capt Drake's command and were under the lead of McKay and Stock Whitley

> Dear Sir —Donald McKay and a few of the Indians has just arrived from Capt Drake's command Donald says that about 80 miles from here (the Reserve) his party of Indians came upon Snake tracks They succeeded in finding the Indians and sent back word to Capt Drake for 50 men after some delay he sent 30—a number entirely inadequate for the service. These troops came up with Donald's party about daylight when they charged the Snakes with a view to cutting them off from a rocky knoll Lieut Watson who led the charge at the head of a small body of his men was shot in the head, and subsequently horribly mutilated By some strange mistake Lieut. McCall, in command with his party of men did not get into the fight and was never under fire One of Donald's Indians was killed Old Stock Whitley was shot in three places, and is badly wounded Barker an expressman who went out with George Rundell had his thigh broken by a shot of the soldiers two were killed in the fight and five wounded The whites were defeated, but recovered the dead bodies after the battle The party took some sixty or seventy horses from the Snakes of these Capt Drake took all the best leaving the Indians but twenty eight poor horses

The Grain Prospect —It is very clearly apparent from the statements in one of our California exchanges that great fears are entertained, with good cause that the grain growers of that State must suffer from short crops this year From almost every county there are reports of a very unfavorable character, and though it seems to be supposed that a considerable portion of last year's crop still remains on hand, yet it is admitted that the San Francisco market will be obliged to depend upon the harvest in Oregon for supplies to save it from a panic and from the schemes of speculators In a late article, showing that there is no occasion for excessive anxiety or for unreasonable prices, the Bulletin makes the following remarks

> In 1860 an almost similar unfavorable prospect raised great fears among our people yet those whose memories are good will remember that heavy rains came out of season that year, which ensured a most excellent crop, even after hopes of the same had been given up Besides the chance of rains to come, there is a positive knowledge that in other grain growing sections as well as the above large quantities of grain remain in the hands of the farmers while the crops in Oregon are reported to be unusually abundant From these sources even if our present crop should prove an entire failure we can expect all that we need to be furnished at fair prices in one point, especially it behooves the people of this State to keep cool and not get excited as to fears of a quasi famine or the extreme high prices for food which always attend such occasions There is scarcely a doubt in the minds of those competent to judge, that there is now stored in the State sufficient grain to keep our population supplied with food until the harvesting of a crop in 1865 Besides this we have Oregon at our own doors with its granaries plethoric with abundance, which will have to seek a market outside of that State Our old source of supply, Chile is also in a condition to minister liberally to our wants At the worst the indications are that in our own State we may expect a one third crop If the good sense of the community will only recall the experience of the wet winter of 1861 62 they will remember that a causeless panic then temporarily raised the prices of breadstuffs upwards of 100 per cent. which shortly afterwards fell back to nearly their old standard Speculators of course will look to reap a rich harvest from the anxieties of the people but it rests with the latter to defeat them by keeping free from unusual excitement on this subject.

A Copperhead Newspaper on McClellan The Colusa Sun, a sound, if not a leading organ of the latter day Democracy, which talks its principles square toed, and "foremost" catering to policy comes down like a thousand of brick on "Little Mac," and utterly repudiates the hero of the Chickahominy graveyard as a candidate of the peace democracy for President. After filing many cogent reasons why the democracy should not nominate McClellan, it closes thus

> Then where has he ever shown himself a statesman? Is he such an orator as to electrify the nation with his eloquence, or are not all his little serenade speeches on the school boy order? We think that every Democrat in the nation could find at least one hundred men who he would prefer to McClellan—for our part we could find a hundred thousand. It will be admitted we presume that he is not the choice of any peace man Now the only question is will the war men sell their principles (always provided they have any) and accept of a peace platform if we will give them the spoils? And then if we make such a trade are we likely to be sold? Then we do not believe that this war element amounts to enough to tamper with It is determined by our party, we believe, to have a sound platform then why not have a sound man upon it? If we nominate a man in whom we have no confidence, will there be the enthusiasm necessary for the general turning out of the Democracy? We think not Then is it policy to nominate such a man?

A Man Lost from the Hospital of the Insane at Vancouver, W T —On Friday, the 20th of May, Francis Mulholland, a man partially deranged, escaped from the Insane Asylum of the Sisters of Charity at Vancouver Diligent search has been made, and nothing has been seen of him since 5 P M on Friday, when he was at Prince's, two miles below Vancouver on the Columbia He was then traveling down the river A skiff was lost from the saw mill below Vancouver on Friday night A man was seen Saturday morning going down the river in a boat It is conjectured that this may have been Mulholland It will be an act of humanity to give any information on the subject to Capt Charles Hopkins at Fort Vancouver, or to the landlord of the What Cheer House, Portland, His wife is now at the house of Capt Hopkins He is an Irishman, his age is about 40, in hight below the middle size slightly built, wore mustaches, has black hair black eyes, dark complexion, pale faced thin and emaciated, he wore a drab colored frock coat, with pockets on the outside, brownish pants, and a light beaver hat, is inoffensive, his aberration slight, but is decided in imagining that he hears unusual sounds and in seeing strange persons

Attempted Murder and Robbery at the Dalles —On Sunday night last, a couple of white men with blackened faces, entered the house of a courtezan by the name of Caroline, at the Dalles, and one attempted to strangle, while the other searched her pockets for the keys with which to get at her purse but the cries of the woman attracted an officer and some citizens, who gave chase and succeeded in arresting two of the villains J W Paton and Charles Baggs They were upon examination before a Justice, fully committed for trial

Remarkable Good Fortune —The Second Massachusetts Battery (Nims') has been in action from the 3d December 1861, to 17th January 1864 115 times, 142 skirmishes and three stand up fights with a total of 170 hours firing Not a man of the battery has been killed or wounded but 80 horses have been lost by the enemy's fire

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

Dates to May 22.

Triumphant Advance of Sherman.

Later from Gen Banks—The Gunboats safe over the Rapids and the Army returning to the Mississippi.

BUTLER STILL FIGHTING - REBELS GET THE WORST OF IT

Forward Movement by Grant—Lee Retreating

Rebel Papers acknowledge the Loss of 20,000 in Recent Battles, but claim the Victory!

Grant's Army Largely Reinforced, and in Better Condition than when the Campaign Commenced.

30,000 Volunteers for One Hundred Days mustered into Service.

Washington, May 21—10 P M —Dispatches from Sherman state that our forces found in Rome a large amount of provisions with several fine iron works and machinery We have secured two good bridges and an excellent crossing of the Etowah Cars are now arriving at Kingston

Dispatches from Banks dated Alexandria May 8th say the dam which had been in course of construction for some time for the purpose of raising the water to release the gunboats would be finished by the 9th and the gunboats be released He would then move immediately for the Mississippi Gen Canby was at the mouth of Red river on the 14th collecting forces to assist Banks

Dispatches from Butler dated May 20—10 P M report that he had been fighting all day—the enemy endeavoring to close in our line The rebel General Walker of Texas had been captured

(Signed) STANTON

New York May 21st —The Times dispatch from Headquarters Army of the Potomac says the losses of the 5th corps since the movement began, are as follows Killed 1 240 wounded, 11 570 missing 1,100 There are less missing than in other corps The stragglers of the whole army are estimated at 12 000

A special dispatch to the Post says Private advices from the army say that Lee's army is much less than has been estimated, it having been greatly reduced in the recent battles The rebel loss in the fight of Thursday 19th is estimated at 1,250 killed and wounded besides 450 prisoners

Sixty citizens of Fredericksburg have been arrested and will be held as hostages for that number of our wounded taken by them and conveyed to Richmond

Washington May 21st —On Friday evening the 20th Grant commenced a movement for the purpose of compelling Lee to abandon his position near Spottsylvania—the details of which should not be made public He has thus far progressed successfully

Longstreet's corps started for the south at one o'clock on the morning of Saturday, 21st An hour and a half later Gen Hancock had moved and Ewell's corps followed Longstreet last night

The indications were that the rebel army had fallen back beyond North Anna

Gen Grant's movement has thus far been pushed without any engagement or serious opposition We now occupy Guinney's Station at the Mattapony on that line

A dispatch from Gen Canby, dated the 14th we have rumors to day through rebel sources all the gunboats except two had succeeded in getting over the falls at Alexandria on the 9th

Dispatches from Kingston state that Sherman's forces are resting and replenishing their supplies

Nothing from Butler to-day

[Signed] STANTON

New York May 22 —The Herald's correspondent says our troops were moving all Friday to a new position

The General's Headquarters were broken up Saturday, and nearly the whole army is in motion

Richmond papers state that their losses in battles was 20 000 and as usual claim a victory acknowledge the loss of 10 guns but say nothing as to the number of prisoners

Philadelphia, May 22 —A special dispatch to the Inquirer says that Grant's army has reached Bowling Green

New York May 23.—A special Washington telegram says the rebel army has been retreating since the attack on our right on the 19th

At 4 P M on Saturday, our forces occupied Milford Station and Bowling Green, and not one of the rebels had been found to fight with

The Tribune's correspondent with Butler, writing on the 20th, says On the 18th, the rebels advanced on our entrenched lines across the Peninsula and engaged our pickets, but were driven back, the firing on our skirmish line was incessant our wounded will probably number 150 Towards night the rebels made a vigorous attempt to force our skirmishers from the road but without success.

Our defences have been greatly strengthened

Deserters report the rebel force under Beauregard at from 20,000 to 30,000

Fortress Monroe, May 23 —At noon yesterday the pickets on our left, near Point of Rocks on the Appomatox, were driven in, and quite an engagement occurred

As soon as the pickets reached our reserve force, two of our batteries opened on the enemy with deadly effect The enemy got the worst of the fight and retired

Picket skirmishing is going on much of the time along our lines

Albany May 23 —Gov Seymour has directed the District Attorney to procure indictments against all persons who were engaged in seizing the offices of the World and Journal of Commerce

Washington, May 23 —Dispatches from General Coombs, at the mouth of Red river dated the 15th, announce the arrival of Admiral Porter The remainder of the gunboats would arrive that night. Banks would probably reach Semmes port on the 16th

Returned veterans to Sherman's army have more than replaced his losses

Official reports of the War Department show that within eight days after the battle of Spottsylvania many thousands of veteran troops were forwarded to Gen Grant Upwards of 20 000 sick and wounded have been transported from the field to Washington hospitals Over 8 000 prisoners have been transported from the field and a large amount of artillery and other implements of an active campaign have been brought away Several thousand fresh cavalry horses have been forwarded The Army of the Potomac is now fully as strong in numbers and better equipped than when the campaign began Several thousands of reinforcements have also been forwarded to other armies in the field During the same time over 30 000 volunteers for 100 days have been mustered into service clothed, armed, equipped and transported to their respective positions

Cairo May 22 —Admiral Porter's flag ship has arrived at Mound City Illinois She reports that our entire fleet is out of Red river, the dam having caused a sufficient depth of water

Detroit May 21 —The propeller Vide exploded her boiler this morning Seven were killed and 12 injured

Washington, May 23 —In the Senate, Morgan, of New York, introduced a bill prohibiting the release of drafted persons, by paying bounty money, without the procuration of a substitute

In the House Coffroth of Pennsylvania introduced a resolution, that with the concurrence of both houses Congress shall adjourn on the 6th of June—adopted

A resolution was offered requesting the President to inform the House whether the publication of the World and the Journal of Commerce was suspended by order of the Government, which was objected to and tabled

A resolution was read and adopted instructing the Committee on Judiciary to inquire whether any or what legislation will be necessary to punish the forgery and publication of what purports to be official documents and what legislation is necessary to punish those who through the press, or otherwise, give aid and comfort to the rebels

Pruyn of New York offered the following resolution which was read for the information of the house

Resolved That the conduct of the executive officers of the Government in closing the offices and suspending the publication of the World and Journal of Commerce was an act unwarranted, in itself dangerous to the cause of the Union and a violation of the Constitution and subversive of the principles of civil liberty and as such are hereby censured by the House

Objection being made Pruyn moved a suspension of the rules in order that he might introduce a resolution The question was negatived

In the House a bill was reported to aid in the construction of a railroad from Lake Superior to Puget Sound and was referred to a special committee

Port Au Basque, May 20 —The London Times correspondent at Danish headquarters says the whole disposable force of the Danes is only 24 000 while the Austrians and Prussians in Denmark number 90 000

The Emperor and Empress of Mexico arrived at Maddeira on April 20th and sailed the same day for Vera Cruz

New York May 21 —The steamship America from Southampton 11th has arrived

In the House of Lords it is claimed that the German Confederacy had agreed to a suspension of hostilities for a month from the 12th, in consideration that the blockade of German ports be raised

Parliament adjourned on the 13th

The Bank of France has raised the rate of discount to 8 per cent.

In the recent naval engagement the Austrians were badly beaten

A Just Rebuke well Deserved —An army correspondent says

The daughter of C J Faulkner of Virginia— the friend of Oregon and Gen Lane —recently met the daughter of Mr Wall formerly Senator from New Jersey at a large party who were very anxious to display their Southern sentiments full of hostility to the Union Miss Faulkner politely addressed them and led them to understand that though a Southern woman and as such true to the South she had no other feeling than perfect contempt and disgust for any Northern lady who held any sympathies with the Government She expected Northern women to be Union —she honored them for it but sympathy for the rebellion was either a cheat and hypocrisy or else the woman who entertained it was a weak fool

The Wrong Name —In our notice yesterday, of the appointment of a successor to Mr Hale as Superintendent of Indian Affairs his name was incorrectly stated Mr McMunn is the man appointed

Grand and Graceful Tableaux —A very agreeable and interesting entertainment will be furnished at the Willamette Theatre, to morrow evening, under the management of the Ladies' Sanitary Aid Society It will consist of a series of Tableaux—historical, sentimental, comical and floral—representing admirably and fancifully, almost every thing ever heard of and some other matters Between the scenes a choir of superannuated dilapidated veterans male and female, dressed in the costume of the last century, to which they will appear to belong, will sing various odd tunes—sacred, ridiculous and appropriate, of course—so that it is hoped that the audience, which is expected to be crowded, will not be wearied or stupefied We learn that tickets for a number sufficient to fill the Theatre, have nearly all been sold A few are yet in the hands of the committee, but a great many who will wish to be present, are likely to be disappointed, unless the Society can make arrangements for a repetition of this most excellent way of getting money for a most excellent object

A Host of Runaways —Five vehicles were dashing furiously about the streets yesterday, and all about the same time The stampede was occasioned by the starting of a horse attached to a light express wagon owned by Mrs Tromley of the Empire Restaurant while the driver was loading a barrel of lime on Third street The horse ran down Third, and Alder, and First streets putting to flight a baker's horse and wagon, a double team hitched to a milk wagon, and the large team and wagon of the Portland Brewery the last named taking the Union House baggage wagon, horse and all, from Pine street to Ash, hub and hub, where it was upset and the beer wagon kept on, down First, then up A, to Park street, among stumps, logs and crossings, throwing lager kegs indiscriminately along the route until the tongue of the wagon struck terra firma rearing the forward wheels above the horses, turning the tongue back, winding the lines up and stopping the team A post in front of the Pioneer Hotel prevented the milk wagon from entering that establishment and playing smash generally The greatest excitement prevailed during the time of the stampede It so happened that no one was hurt, although a dozen children barely escaped from the street near where the baggage wagon was upset

An Amazon —... row was had on the corner of ... streets last evening A woman was ... to fire a pistol at sundry individuals, but fortunately the cap snapped, and subsequently a gentleman relieved her of the dangerous weapon in which a merry scuffle ensued The matter will undergo an investigation before the Recorder this morning, and it is to be hoped that the amazon will learn a lesson which will in the future prevent such actions

Fell in —A large vat of not very pure water, about four feet deep, has been uncovered, by taking up the floor of the "old shingle building," corner of Front and Washington streets, into which a small boy fell, last evening, creating quite a sensation many supposing it was a well and that the boy's life was imperilled He cried lustily for help, and was rescued "more frightened than hurt"

Clam Chowder —Clams were served up in all shapes yesterday, and many a regular coast dinner was "spread out," to the admiring gaze of epicures We partook of the hospitality of Capt. Baker, and did ample justice to a dish of chowder, with all the concomitants, at his old stand, in the rear of No 13, Washington street

Current of the Columbia —The current of the Columbia river is reported to be very rapid, so much so that it is impossible for a steamer to cross from one side to the other, just below the Cascades, with a barge in tow Stock is landed on the Oregon side, and freight on the Washington side, when carried by the stock boat

The New World —The shaft of the steamer New World was broken between the center and inner arms of the larboard or port wheel, it was an old break, and had been wearing for some time The shaft is being taken out, and will be sent to San Francisco on the next steamer.

Grain—Our streets were well crowded with farmer's wagons yesterday, many of which were loaded with grain for market It looks like business when the farmers turn out if they don't bring so much as the boats do The prices were well maintained, throughout the day, averaging $1 per bushel for wheat and about 65 cents for oats.

Another Change —The steamer Julia relieved the Senator, and made the trip to the Cascades yesterday The Senator taking the place of Rival, will run to Oregon City as usual

Oregon Horses —Some very fine horses were taken to California on the last steamship by Mr. Foster, of Hillsboro Two large bays were among the lot, measuring 16 hand each, two others would go over that.

Treasure —About seventy five pounds of bullion arrived by Wells, Fargo & Co 's Express, on the steamer from the Cascades last evening

Sale Day —Mr A B, Richardson offers a large assortment of groceries, etc , for sale at auction this morning See advertisement.

A post in front of the Pioneer Hotel prevented the milk wagon from entering that establishment, and playing smash generally. The excitement prevailed during the time of the stampede. It so happened that no one was hurt, although a dozen children barely escaped from the street near where the baggage wagon was upset.

Library Association.—At a meeting of the directors last evening, it was decided not to formally open the reading rooms until the 1st of June, in consequence of the non arrival of full files of papers. In the mean time those interested will find a goodly number of newspapers on the files. The directors are laboring under considerable embarrassment for the want of funds, as the constitution provides that no moneys except such as may be raised from initiation fees and quarterly dues shall be used for furnishing the rooms, and meeting current expenses.

Female Rescuers.—A man was thrown from on top a loaded wood wagon on Monday last, when passing up Seventh street, between C and D streets, and part of the load tumbled upon him. The situation was a very critical one, and for some time it was quite uncertain how he should escape, as there was not another man to be seen in the neighborhood. At length his condition was discovered by the women and some six or eight of them set to work removing the wood, and released the man, who was profuse in remarks of gratitude to his fair rescuers.

An Amazon.—Quite a bit of a row was had on the corner of First and Oak streets last evening. A woman was attempting to fire a pistol at sundry individuals, but fortunately the cap snapped, and subsequently a gentleman relieved her of the dangerous weapon, in which a merry scuffle ensued. The matter will undergo an investigation before the Recorder this morning, and it is to be hoped that the amazon will learn a lesson which will in the future prevent such actions.

Dr Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants.—Sold by all Druggists and Dealers everywhere. ap26d1m

Dead in the Desert

(Concluded.)

"Two days ago, I was wandering near nightfall along the opposite bank of the river, when I saw near the shore of this island a man waist deep in the water. With a pole he seemed to be dragging the river's bed, and changing his position from time to time he continued his labors until in the decreasing light he was lost to my view. I thought little of the circumstance until on the following evening I observed him in the same place and similarly occupied. My curiosity was now excited, and proceeding to the spot where my skiff was moored I hastened to the lower end of the island. Having often hunted here I knew of a path through the tangled undergrowth that would quickly lead me to the scene of his operations. Hidden by the brushwood I soon gained a position so close that I could distinctly hear his labored breathings. He had in his hand a long boathook which had evidently fixed upon something, which dragged heavily, he at length brought to the water's edge."

"At this moment he suddenly dropped his boathook, and facing round toward the shore exclaimed in a voice full of terror and defiance, 'What's that you say? But I had said nothing, and save the sound of his own voice and movements, everything around was as silent as death. Again he stooped and, picking up something looked at it for a moment in the moonlight, and then hurled it into the thicket. It fell almost close to me, and I involuntarily exclaimed aloud, 'A human skull!' Then again his hollow, unearthly voice rang out in the solitude, 'What's that you say?' and then listening for a moment, he added, 'The boy seems talkative tonight.' From that moment I believed him to be a murderer. He then gathered some thing up from the river, and wading it in deep water flung it from him, and as he returned to shore mutteringly exclaimed — 'Now, with head and body far apart, talk to me further if you can.'"

"The hot blood was then rushing through my veins, I could endure it no longer, so springing over the intervening brushwood, in a moment I was at his side. His glazed eyes shone by the bright moonlight and glared on me in mortal terror, while with a voice like that of a doomed man he cried, 'Man or demon have mercy upon me!'"

"Instead of being stalwart and strong, I found him a heart-broken, conscience stricken, bowed down man. I assured him I would show mercy, but insisted that he should at once clear up the mystery of his movements."

"With weak and tottering steps, that gave too certain evidence that his days were nearly numbered, he guided me to his cabin, and throwing himself upon the tule pallet and pointing me to the seat beside him, he gave me the following narrative."

"'My real name is Douglas. I am English by birth, and from my earliest recollection I labored with my father to the Northern colliers. In 1845 I sailed for America, but in the spring of 1850 I settled in Texas, there I lived for four years, but at length determined to strike overland for California.'

"'In company with a Swede named Rawne I traveled across the high prairies of Texas into New Mexico, as far as Santa Fe on the Rio Grande.

"'Here we made the acquaintance of one Harry Udolf, a Swede, who with his wife and child—a little boy of six years of age—were preparing to start for California. Udolf had money, and in addition to his teams and rolling stock, some fifty head of cattle.'

"'It was soon arranged that we should join them, and we engaged ourselves for six months.'

"'Crossing the New Mexico Cordilleras we reached the banks of the Rio Colorado in the territory of Utah. Here Udolf was taken ill and in two days died. We buried him and raised a head board by his grave on which we inscribed his name. We continued our journey with the heart broken widow and her fatherless boy, who became the darling and pet of myself and my companions.

"'We reached at length the grassy meadows of the Carson and here Mrs. Udolf was seized with cholera. In a few hours she was dead, and we left her body in a deep grave on the banks of the Sweetwater.'

"'Rawne and I took the control of the party, and dismissing the other men who had accompanied the train, with the orphan boy and the property we continued our route to California.'

"'And now for the first time came over me the thought that I might enrich myself at the expense of the boy, but I had no thought of destroying him, for little Charley grew every day in our affections.'

"'We found nearly $2,000 in Udolf's wagon, and upon reaching Sacramento we sold the wagons, teams and cattle for $3,000 more—all of course the property of the orphan boy.

"'The desire to possess this money now haunted me day and night. We had been residing at Sacramento city about three weeks, when one day, as though by way of a joke, I proposed to Rawne deserting the boy and taking the property. 'There is a better way than that,' replied Rawne, 'for in that case the boy might tell on us.' Thinking that I had in my companion a ready accomplice, I at once divulged to him a plan I had formed for murdering the boy, and it was thus we carried it out.

"'Under a pretence of a trip down the Sacramento river to locate farming lands, we hired two row boats, and taking with us a tent and some provisions, we started down the river, and for the purpose I had in view, I procured the old anchor fluke and chain which you now see on the spot where I was dredging.

"'On the second day out we were joined by two men, who kept company with us for several days, camping with us at night. With these men was a huge English mastiff, to which our little Udolf became greatly attached, while the affection manifested by the dog for the child was truly remarkable. At the earnest entreaty of the boy we purchased the dog, and on the next day parted company with its late owners. We had now reached this little island, and I found my companion Rawne, ready to listen to any method I might suggest for disposing of little Charley, but he left all the planning to me. And now for the part of my story that I would to God were blotted from my memory. I proposed to Rawne that towards nightfall he should drug the boy to stupefaction, and then when all else was arranged, I would do the rest. We then all put our most valuable effects into one boat with the money, all but about $50, which I had in my pocket.'

"'It was agreed that when night came I should leave the camp, taking the mastiff with me, that the moon's rising should be the signal for my return, and for Rawne's departure with the treasure boat to the lower part of the island, where he was to await my arrival, having placed the helpless but not lifeless body of the boy, encircled by the chain, and attached to the old anchor fluke in the bottom of the other boat. I was not to see him place the lad there, he was not to see me draw the plugs from the boat and cut it adrift.

"'Twilight came. I rose to depart, and, though a murderer at heart, I felt a choking sensation in my throat, and the great hot tears chased down my cheeks as I gazed upon the utter helplessness of my victim. Soon after my departure I missed the dog, he had probably returned to the camping ground. At length the moon rose, and steeling my heart against every generous impulse and every touch of pity I hastened back. Rawne had departed leaving everything ready. I approached the water's edge, laid my hand upon the boat, and could distinctly hear the half-suppressed breathings of the child as he lay wrapped in blankets. I waded as far as I could towards deep water, drew the plugs, held to the boat by a short line, heard a low gurgling groan, and the water closed over it.

"'Returning to the shore I hastened to the appointed place of meeting. Judge of my rage and disappointment, I found Rawne was not there—he had gone, taking the money, valuables, and dog, all with him—all snatched from me when almost in my grasp—left me without the means of escape from this fearful place, but what was worse I was alone with no covering but the angry sky. A murderer alone! alone! with no screen from the flashing eye of God. Alone! all alone in this awful silence where every sigh of the night wind seemed speeding toward Heaven laden with the cry of blood. From that hour I have been more a demon than a man. At the end of two days I was obliged to drag up the sunken boat as my only means of escape, and now again my heart sank within me.

"'I felt a cold terror at the thought of gazing again upon the accusing corpse of my victim, but overturning the boat before it reached the shore, I saw nothing of the burden it had borne.

'For three long and weary years I have wandered over every part of the State, from town to city, from camp to camp, seeking the hated object of my revenge, but all in vain, and now, with the terrors of death upon me, with remorse eating out my soul—oh! that I might sink into forgetfulness and the grave!

"'Strange,' continued he, 'that is the dark mystery of my life, the seal of blood is on my forehead, the cry of blood ever rings in my ear. And yet, ofttimes in my dreams, while sleeping here, close to the mouldering bones of my victim, with fiends and demons shrieking and dancing round my bed, I see the radiant face of that poor, murdered boy, and what is stranger still, it seems to beam with pity and forgiveness.'

"The recital of this fearful tragedy proved too much for his shattered system, and he sank back for a time in a death like torpor, reviving again, however, he pointed to yonder wall, and in broken accents and laboring breath, asked me to hand him an old coat that hung there.

"He tore apart a portion of the lining, and produced a letter with the seal unbroken, for he could not read. It was addressed—'John Douglass, San Francisco.' 'I have had that letter by me for three years,' said he, 'but I dared not asked any person to read it, fearing that it might divulge the great crime of my life, it can do no harm now for I shall soon be beyond man's reach—read it to me, if you please.'

"I broke the seal, and read as follows —

"'John Douglass. Should this letter ever reach you, it may possibly relieve your mind of a heavy burden.' ('What is it?' eagerly enquired Douglass.) 'You must know then of a truth that Charley Udolf still lives. In place of the boy I substituted the mastiff, having first drugged him, bound the chain heavily round him, placed him in the boat, and covered him with the lad's blankets. Then I took the stupefied body of the boy, with the treasure, and proceeded hastily to San Francisco, and in two days we were on the ocean, homeward bound.

"'The lad is now with his father's relatives in Brooklyn. From the first I never intended you should destroy him, and I pray God that ere you die, you may learn that you were not his murderer. Yours, truly,

"'THOS RAWNE.'

"I raised my eyes," said the narrator, "towards Douglass, his long, bony hands were clasped together, a smile seemed struggling to play over the pallor of death—the eyes were fixed with a glassy stare, and with the death rattle in his throat he exclaimed, 'God have mercy upon me—Christ have mercy upon me,' and he fell back—'Dead in the desert.'"

PERUVIAN SYRUP,

OR PROTECTED

Solution of Protoxide of Iron,

Has been used with Great Success in Curing

DYSPEPSIA,

Affections of the Liver, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Bronchitis and Consumptive Tendencies, Disordered State of the Blood, Female Complaints, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Scurvy, the prostrating effects of Lead or Mercury,

GENERAL DEBILITY,

and all Diseases which require a

Tonic and Alterative Medicine.

THE PROOFS OF ITS EFFICACY are so numerous, so well authenticated and of such peculiar character that sufferers cannot reasonably hesitate to receive the proffered aid.

The class of diseases for which the Syrup provides a cure is precisely that which has so often baffled the highest efforts of medical skill. The facts are tangible, the witnesses accessible, and the safety and efficacy of the Syrup incontrovertible.

From well-known Citizens of Boston.

The undersigned having experienced the beneficial effects of the Peruvian Syrup, do not hesitate to recommend it to the attention of the public.

Certificate of Dr. Hayes.

It is well known that the medicinal effects of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

In the Peruvian Syrup this desirable point is attained by COMBINATION IN A WAY BEFORE UNKNOWN; and this solution may replace all the proto-carbonates, citrates and tartrates of the Materia Medica.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DIScovery of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It is to act upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to this investigation, it remained almost useless until Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth & Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and its use recommended to practitioners (see 'American Medical Monthly,' July 6, 1856, page 70.)

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Disease, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Full directions accompany each bottle.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr. H. Anders & Co., Physicians and Chemists, New York.

HOSTETTER'S
STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE REMEDY upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutricious blood and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters

Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured, strength, in whatever manner it may have been wasted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthy invigorant. For indigestion or all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters,

As an invigorant and restorative immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which their sex they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the depressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.
